Management Discussion of the Performance of the CWB Onyx Canadian Equity Fund

Results of Operations

In the first six months of 2022 (the “period”), the Fund’s net assets decreased by $6,588,053 to $65,310,802. This reflects a decreased of $3,563,350 primarily from investment performance, net withdrawal of $2,021,778 and distributions to unitholders of $1,002,925.

Series A of the Fund returned -6.64% over the Period versus the Fund’s internal benchmark (the “Fund Benchmark”), the S&P/TSX Composite Total Return (TR) Index¹, which returned -9.87% over the Period. Unlike the Fund Benchmark, the Fund’s return is calculated after the deduction of fees and expenses. Returns for Series O of the Fund may vary, largely due to differences in fees and expenses.

The year started with a consensus that the Bank of Canada would need to increase interest rates in the face of unusually high inflation brought about by high levels of COVID-19-related fiscal stimulus, tight supply chains and strong consumer demand. Expectations were for small and regular increases. As the first half of 2022 unfolded, inflation measures continued to accelerate more than expected, partly due supply chain issues exacerbated by the Russian invasion of Ukraine and central banks began tightening much more rapidly. By the end of June, the Bank of Canada’s target for the overnight rate had risen from 0.25% to start the year to 2.5%. A significant amount of hiking in a short period of time. Though the Canadian equity market as measured by the S&P/TSX Composite Index had reached a record high at the end of March, it sold off thereafter to end the Period down 9.9%. The Energy sector was the strongest performer in the Period due in part to supply disruptions from the Russian/Ukraine war. Most every other sector came under selling pressure with Information Technology and Healthcare underperforming the most.

The Fund performed well vs. its benchmark in the first half of 2022. Performance was helped by underweight allocations to Information Technology and Materials stocks. In the Materials sector, the Fund’s underweight allocation to gold was a key contributor as many gold stocks fell 20% or more. Stock selection in Financials also had a positive impact, partly driven by an overweight allocation to Intact Financial.

An underweight allocation to the Energy sector hurt relative performance. In addition to a sector underweight the Fund owns larger companies in the Energy space with a tilt towards pipelines. The Russian/Ukraine war saw a significant run up in oil and natural gas prices in a short period of time. This type of price movement tends to benefit smaller energy firms more.

Recent Developments

The Canadian economy faces many cross currents. Interest rates have risen significantly to combat rising inflation at a time when the economy is slowing. All the while unemployment remains at or near record lows. There are some signs that inflation is peaking, such as falling commodity prices and lower shipping rates, but the Bank of Canada is likely to err on the side of caution and continue to raise rates until inflation reverts back to a more normal level, even if it heightens the risk of a recession. We continue to monitor the economic situation and its potential impact.

¹ This information is derived from the Fund's unaudited interim or audited annual financial statements (as applicable). All figures presented are prepared in accordance with IFRS, which requires the Fund to measure the fair value of its investments based on close market prices, where the close market price falls within the bid-ask spread, which is consistent with the method used in measuring the net asset value for transactions with unitholders.

² Net assets and distributions are based on the actual number of units outstanding at the relevant time. The increase (decrease) from operations is based on the weighted average number of units outstanding over the financial period.

³ Distributions were paid in cash, reinvested in additional units of the Fund or both.

² Management expense ratio ("MER") is based on total expenses (excluding commissions and other portfolio transaction costs) for the stated period and is expressed as an annualized percentage of daily average net asset value during the Period.

³ The trading expense ratio represents total commissions and other portfolio transaction costs expressed as an annualized percentage of daily average net asset value during the Period.

⁴ The Fund's portfolio turnover rate indicates how actively the Fund's portfolio adviser manages its portfolio investments. A portfolio turnover rate of 100% is equivalent to the Fund buying and selling all of the securities in its portfolio once in the course of the year. The higher a Fund's portfolio turnover rate in a year, the greater the trading costs payable by the Fund in the year, and the greater the chance of an investor receiving taxable capital gains in the year. There is not necessarily a relationship between a high turnover rate and the performance of a Fund.

* Data reported represents results from February 10, 2016 to December 31, 2016.

Management Fees

The Fund pays CWB WM an annual management fee of 1.80% of the net asset value of Series A units of the Fund. The management fee for each applicable series is calculated and accrued daily as a percentage of its NAV. The Fund's management fees were used by CWB WM to pay for the cost of managing the investment portfolio, providing investment analysis and recommendations, making investment decisions, making brokerage arrangements for the purchase and sales of investment portfolio, providing other services, and compensating CWB WM for acting as the trustee of the Fund. CWB WM also used the management fee to fund trailing commissions and any other compensation to CWF whose clients invest in the Fund. A further breakdown of the management fee is not available for the Period.

Series O management fee is negotiated and paid directly by each investor. Series O management fee is not to exceed the Series A management and advisory fee of the Fund.
